Family, Friends, and Caregivers

Learning that you have cancer can be just as scary for family and friends as it is for you. Loved ones might not know what to say. Follow these tips to help you talk about your cancer diagnosis.

TRY THIS

Establish good communication. Decide and set limits on how much you want to share.

Ask for help. Your loved ones want to support you. Be specific about the kinds of help you need.

Health Care Team

Cancer treatment typically requires a team of health care professionals, including doctors, nurses, and other staff who help take care of you before, during, and after treatment.

TRY THIS

Establish good communication. Take notes and bring someone with you to appointments.

Build a relationship. Let your health care team know what you expect from them.

Be prepared. Write down questions ahead of appointments.

Consider a second opinion. Ask your doctor for a referral and to share your medical records.

Peer-to-Peer Support

Most people with cancer find it helpful to connect with other people who have been affected by cancer. Peer groups can be a place to share your feelings and experiences.

TRY THIS

Join a peer group. It may be helpful to talk with others who have had the same experiences.
